- # 107696 A History of Riel's Second Rebellion and How It Was Quelled
Haultain, Theodore Arnold
- Grip Printing and Publishing Co., Toronto. 1885. (Wrappers) Very good. 44pp. Folio. Illus., ports. An extremely fragile publication done on newsprint and rarely found in anything approaching acceptable condition. This copy is about as good as it gets, in spite of the fact that many pages have torn at the creases in Part 2. Of the dozen or more sets of this that I have seen in over thirty years, only three contained the center four pages with the coloured stone litho of Middleton and commanding officers. Alas, this one does not. This accounts for the comment in Peel(3) 1461 alluding to errors in page numbers. In fact, PP 12-15 are missing here as usual.

Bloomfield, Leonard

Yale University Press, New Haven and London. 1962, 1st edition. (Cloth) Near fine in near fine dust jacket. xi, 515pp. Tasteful book plate to inside cover, else FINE. Minor edgewear at unclipped jacket corners. Spine toned. Jacket showing minimal dirt. "The last complete work, and in many ways the chef-d'oeuvre, of one of the greatest of American Linguists, the MENOMINI LANGUAGE is the end product of half a lifetime of study in the Algonquian family of Languages, and the distillation of Professor Bloomfield's long and intimate personal experience with the Menomini tribe. As a description, the book is far more complete and detailed than most comparable studies; as a theoretical work it is unusual in its avoidance of theoretical discussion and its sober concentration on the facts of the language." 103713 Indian Treaties and Surrenders. From 1680 to 1890 and Volume 3 Indian Treaties and Surrenders from No. 281 to No. 483.

Canada.

Coles Publishing Co., Toronto. 1971. (Wrappers) Near fine. 325P + 318P + 399P, maps, some folding. PO in memorium stamp to title page. A three volume set, in a very lightly worn slipcase, covering treaties 1-483. A reprint of the extremely scarce edition of 1891. As with all contemporary reprints, Treaty 36 is not present. When Coles originally did the reprint, a collating error resulted in the same page from another volume being substituted. Subsequent reprints have used the Coles edition, rather than the original, extending the error.

The Mercury Series / Collection Mercure

“The Mercury Series began in 1972 and was designed to permit the rapid dissemination of scientific, scholarly, and museological information pertaining to the disciplines for which the National Museum of Man was responsible. This included Canadian prehistoric archaeology, physical anthropology, ethnology, ethnohistory, folk culture and history, including military history. The six divisions of the National Museum of Man (the Archaeological Survey of Canada, Canadian Ethnology Service, Centre for Folk Culture Studies, History Division, Communications Division and the Directorate) and the Canadian War Museum had separate sequentially numbered publications in this series. When the Canadian Museum of Civilization Corporation came into being in 1990, the Mercury Series was retained as its primary publication series. In 2003, a separate series for the Canadian Postal Museum was introduced. The Mercury Series is comprised of over four hundred specialized publications and is recognized by scholars to be an important reference on Canadian history and prehistory.”
